Look Back / Tighten Up / Look Forward

- Should be original goals be reconsidered?
- Progress is being made, but how do we most efficiently show it?
- Length and detail of recommendations and priorities
- Process used at arriving at recommendations
- Increase collaboration between federal and non-federal members
  - Subcommittees and Federal workgroups
  - More non-federal input into the plan
- Meeting topics / time allocation
- Use of subcommittees and frequency/regularity of meetings

Next Steps to be Considered by FACA

- Subcommittees review goals and strategies and determine if the goals need to be updated and consider if the right questions are being asked
- Consider audiences for plan. Revisit structure of Annual Update to the Plan to more clearly articulate goals and measurable progress on goals
  - List strategies separately?
- Possible creation of two separate lists of recommendations: one short-term and one long-term
  - Allow the FACA to be bold and still be practical
- Agree upon metrics to be used to measure progress in achieving goals
- Determine if the right people are around the table
